Roman Candle Ignites Roof Of William Holmes Home Early In Morning

Clyde England, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur England, Walnut Street, suffered painful and serious injuries at noon Thursday when firecrackers he had placed in a cigar box exploded in his face. The boy's face and eyes were burned.

He was given first aid and antitetanus treatment at his home. The youth had pulled a package of firecrackers apart and had put them in a cigar box. A piece of lighted punk dropped in the box, and young England was burned as he looked into the box to recover the punk.

The accident was the only serious one of the holiday in Circleville.

Traffic on Routes 22 and 23 through the city was reported heavy by Traffic Patrolman Miller Fissell, but he added that no motor accidents had happened in the city during the day.

Circleville police also spent a quiet day, by making only two arrests for fireworks shooting within the city limits. The two persons arrested were Richard Dawson, 29, Mill Street, and Earl Lutz, Route 1, Kingston. Both posted $5 bonds to appear before Mayor William Cady.

Fireworks Blamed

Fireworks was the cause of two fires in the city. A barn at the Harry Weaver residence at Pickaway and Mound Streets, caught fire at 4:15 Thursday afternoon when an exploding firecracker ignited some dry grass near the barn, the fire spreading to the building and burning several barns before firemen could extinguish it.

A more severe fire happened at 1:30 Friday morning when sparks from a Roman candle dropped on the shingle roof of the William Holmes residence, East Mill Street. A passerby noticed the fire and turned in the alarm. The occupants (Continued on Page Three)

ANGERED FATHER KILLS DAUGHTER AT GIRL'S SCHOOL

NEW YORK, July 5—Charged with the fatal shooting of his 15-year-old daughter because she refused to return to Philadelphia to live with him, Joseph Moshell, 47, a Syrian born dyer and cleaner, was in Westchester County jail today awaiting arraignment.

Moshell killed the girl, Melba, at St. Marys in the Field, an Episcopal school at Valhalla, N. Y., where she had sought refuge from what she had charged was her father's unbearable conduct, police reported. Attired in an American Legion uniform, Moshell arrived at the school yesterday, gained an audience with the girl, suddenly pulled out a gun and shot her through the heart when she spurned his pleas to return, according to police. He turned the gun on himself, but inflicted only superficial wounds, they said.

Sister Superior Celestine was sitting with them when the shooting occurred. She said Moshell suddenly became enraged and incoherent and shouted, "see, she doesn't love me," as he drew the gun and fired.

DAMAGE TO WHEAT CROP REPORTED BY OBSERVERS

As harvesting in Pickaway County wheat fields continued Friday, conservation officers and agricultural authorities estimated that at least 25 percent of the 65,000 acres of wheat in the county has been damaged by blight. AAA Chairman John Boggs reported that in some fields damage from blasted heads is as high as 60 percent, while in others the figure is considerably lower. Wet weather at the time the wheat was ripening is believed to have caused the damage.

Damage to fields in neighboring counties is also reported to be severe. Fayette County farmers predict that the blight which appeared in their fields within the last two weeks will reduce the wheat crop of their county by one-fourth.

Two Bullets In Abdomen End Thursday Night Altercation

Shot twice in the abdomen by Ashville marshals, Harland J. Ballard of 473 East Rich Street, Columbus, was reported improving Friday in Mercy Hospital, Columbus, where he was taken shortly after midnight Thursday following an altercation in Ashville during which several shots were fired. Hospital attaches said that Ballard was expected to recover.

The Columbus man was wounded by Marshal Robert Walden and Deputy Marshal Cecil Scott in a running pistol duel that broke out after Ballard and his wife, according to Ashville authorities, had argued at the platform dance being conducted as a feature of the Fourth of July celebration. Ballard, according to Special Deputy Marshal John Myers, had struck his wife when she refused to leave the dance with him. Mrs. Ballard, a daughter of Walter Flowers, formerly of Ashville, had been visiting in the Ashville community.

WILLKIE CHOICE OF PARTY BOSS TO BE DECIDED

NEW YORK, July 5—The name of the new chairman of the Republican National Committee was expected today to come out of a conference between Wendell Willkie, presidential nominee, and the sub-committee charged with making the selection in cooperation with him.

The nominee spent another full day in his office on the July Fourth holiday and held at least one conference while waving a sandwich in one hand and a bottle of milk in the other.

At his press conference of the day, Willkie said that he would meet with the sub-committee this afternoon. If the national chairman is named at the session, the candidate said he will simultaneously announce the name of his campaign manager.

The campaign manager is to coordinate the work of the national committee and the volunteer groups.

Court May Hear School Case Week Of July 22

Following the suit of the Muhlenberg board of education against the Pickaway County board, protesting the county board's action to create a new school district in the Monroe-Muhlenberg area, Judge Meeker Terwilliger announced Friday that he had written to the Ohio State Supreme Court asking that a judge be assigned to hear the case.

Judge Terwilliger stated that since he had heard a similar case last year between the same parties, he felt that an outside judge should be appointed. A definite date for the hearing has as yet not been determined, but Judge Terwilliger said that it would be during the week of July 22.

In its suit filed July 1, with the Common Pleas Court, the Muhlenberg board maintained that the county board had no authority to consolidate the two school districts and asked that a temporary restraining clause be granted by the court prohibiting the transfer of funds or property or from placing any tax or levy against the property of the Muhlenberg Township district to the so-called Monroe-Muhlenberg district.

Berlin Says Many 'Subs' Still Free

German Newspapers Claim Churchill Has Signed Death Warrant

BERLIN, July 5—Germany has promised to aid the French Government in avenging British naval sinkings and seizures of French warships.

On the heels of official notification to Germany by the French Petain Government that it has severed diplomatic relations with Britain, authentic information in Berlin disclosed that the Reich, in effect, informed France: "We will do everything possible to enable France to counter-act in similar manner the English attack on the French navy."

This, combined with the bitterness of the French Government at Vichy against England, was regarded by German authorities as foreshadowing costly French retaliation against England.

The French are in position to deliver a heavy blow, German quarters stressed, since approximately 100 of the most modern French submarines are still at large.

Agreement Suspended

On this basis it can be assumed that the Reich for the time being has suspended clauses in the Franco-German armistice agreement obligating the French fleet to remain inactive in French harbors.

Henceforth, it was believed in Berlin, the French fleet and all its affiliated branches will be entitled to draw munitions, fuel and food supplies from any convenient German or Italian port and pursue the fight against England, either singly or in active cooperation with the Italian and German fleets.

CROWD RUSHES DETROIT POLICE TO FREE YOUTH

DETROIT, July 5—Caught in a swirling melee when 3,000 Negroes rushed the Belle Isle police station in an attempt to free a Negro youth suspected of stealing a canoe, a dozen patrolmen and civilians nursed cuts and bruises today.

Most seriously injured was Patrolman Summer Patterson who was struck in the face with a rock. Patrolman Lloyd Geis suffered a badly torn right ear. The trouble started when police seized Melvin McConico, 18-year-old Negro youth, and locked him in the Belle Isle station after he assertedly took a canoe rented by someone else.

The crowd soon gathered, yelling "turn him loose, turn him loose," they stormed the station where six policemen barricaded themselves inside.

Stones, milk bottles and heavy sticks were hurled through the station window before more than 60 hurriedly summoned patrolmen rushed into the fray brandishing nightsticks. The rioting continued for over half an hour and for a while threatened to get entirely out of hand.

Adding to the confusion were the cries of several lost children whom police had locked in the back room of the station to protect them from the barrage of objects which filled the air.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE Britain and France, former last-ditch Allies in the war against Germany, have come to a parting of the ways that may even bring France formally into war against the British.

That was the news that rushed by wireless and cable across the Atlantic Ocean to America today following the grim Anglo-French sea battle off Oran, Algeria, which British Prime Minister Winston Churchill sorrowfully described in London yesterday.

It seemed significant that the first news of the diplomatic break originated in Berlin, where the Reich Government received official notification of the French action from the government of Premier Henri Philippe Petain at Vichy, France.

While Berlin was formally notified, authoritative British circles in London and even the charge d'affaires of the French embassy there said they had no official confirmation of the severance of relations.

But neutral circles in London said the break was expected. These circles anticipated also that the Petain regime may declare formally that a state of war exists between Britain and France.

In this event, these circles predicted, the British Government would immediately recognize the French National Committee in London, headed by General Charles De Gaulle, as the only French government.

De Gaulle came to London to pick up the torch of French resistance against Germany after the Petain regime capitulated.

Britain's press applauded the sinkings and seizures of French ships to keep them from German and Italian control, contending the action needs "no apology." The London Daily Mirror commented:

BERLIN ANSWERS HULL'S WARNING ABOUT COLONIES

WASHINGTON, July 5—The German Government informed the United States today that it regarded Secretary of State Hull's recent warning that this country would not permit the territory of the Western Hemisphere to be transferred from one European power to another as "without object."

Secretary Hull, announcing receipt of the German note, said he considered it useless to address any further communication to the German Government on this subject reiterating his warning to Germany that the United States would not allow the transfer of any European colonies in the western world from one country to another.

OHIO FACTORIES TO BE USED FOR ARMY PROGRAM

Congressmen Assured By War Department That Orders Will Be Granted

SURVEYS ARE HINTED

Solons Urging That Idle Structures Be Used Ahead Of Others

WASHINGTON, July 5 — Ohio congressmen were assured today that the War Department will make extensive surveys of defense industrial possibilities in Ohio, with indications that heavy orders will be placed in the state within a few months.

Because of its location and its many tool, steel and similar plants, members of congress have been informed, Ohio is in a favored spot in working out the multi-billion defense program.

The War Department, according to information given to Rep. Earl Lewis of St. Clairsville, is not yet ready to begin general surveys of possibilities of developing idle plants and converting others, but is expected to take this course in the near future.

Rep. J. Harry McGregor, of West Lafayette, said that one plant in West Lafayette, which filled munitions orders during the World War, has already begun to change its dies so as to be ready to submit bids.

"A number of plants in my district have requested surveys and the War Department has assured me that it will give as prompt attention as possible to this matter," said Rep. Lewis.

Information Provided

"I have sent in much information from several communities. We have suggested two airplane factory sites and one site for a landing field. I have requested that a study be made of the steel plants at Martins Ferry and Mingo Junction, both of which are down and which could be used. Availability of plants at Columbiana, East Palestine, Wellsville, Bellaire, Powhatan Point and Carrollton have been pointed out."

"Members of congress have urged on the War Department the splendid facilities in Ohio, including coal, tool facilities, clay and other products needed for defense purposes," said McGregor.

"I anticipate many orders in my district. Several of our plants have been surveyed. I am informed. Since three or four plants in my district produced materials during the World War, it is highly probable that they will receive orders."

Rep. Thomas Jenkins, of Ironton, it was learned, has conferred with War Department officials several times on special proposed projects. He declined to reveal their nature at this time.

Rep. Secombe, of Canton, who was informed that order schedules have been drawn for one plant in his district, said that several others are being surveyed.

To Use Idle Plants

Ohio members—both Democrats and Republicans—are making special efforts, a canvass showed, to persuade authorities to utilize plants which now are idle rather than to launch into a huge new government construction program.

Gotham Hunts Suspects After Bomb Kills Two; Fair Throngs Menaced

NEW YORK, July 5—Several score suspects were rounded up for questioning today in one of the most intensive manhunts in years as police and G-men strove to ferret out the perpetrators of yesterday's bomb explosion at the World's Fair which killed two detectives and injured five others, two critically.

All 18,000 city police were mobilized for active 24-hour duty. Orders went out to pick up all known agitators, both right and left wing, and suspected foreign agents. Early this morning more than 50 had been rounded up.

Apparently the bomb had lain in a room in the British building at the fair since last Wednesday. It exploded as it was being examined in an out-of-the-way area at the fair after being removed from the British building.

A small brass cogwheel, believed to be a vital part of the time-clock mechanism of the bomb, was the principal clue thus far uncovered. From the evidence thus far studied, police were convinced the bomb was loaded with dynamite.

The dead were detectives Joseph J. Lynch, 33, and Ferdinand A. Socha, 35, members of the bomb squad. Ironically, it was Socha's day off. He had returned to duty at the request of his pal, Lynch, when officials at the British building called in police.

Stooping Over Suitcase Lynch and Socha were blown to their deaths as they stooped over the small canvas covered suitcase containing the bomb.

Their bodies were badly mangled. Shreds of their clothing and personal effects were found as much as 50 feet away. The blast blew a hole three by five feet and three feet deep in the ground.

The critically injured were detectives William J. Federer, 36, and Joseph Gallagher, 39, who were standing nearby as Lynch and Socha sought to dismantle the bomb.

Detective Martin J. Schuchman, 40, was also badly injured, as was Patrolman Emilia Vyskocil, 51. John McLaughlin, captain of detectives of the World's Fair police, was cut on the face.

The bomb, with Macabre ingenuity, had been placed in the fan room in the British pavilion, one of the most centrally located sections. It can only be imagined what havoc and death it would have wrought had it exploded in this confined area instead of in the wide open space at the rear of the Polish building to which it was removed.

LaGuardia Angered "Every man in the police department will remain on 24 hour duty until this case is broken," said Mayor F. H. LaGuardia who sped to the scene in a radio car to take personal charge of the investigation.

"This is one of the worst outrages this city has known. Whether it is the work of a crank or a radical makes little difference. We will not rest until the man or men responsible are captured and punished."

Most of the 180,000 persons on the fair grounds at the time were unaware of the explosion. Those that heard the blast believed for the most part it was merely more of the fireworks which had been set off at the fair during the day.

The British pavilion had been heavily guarded since Tuesday when an anonymous voice warned the telephone operator the building would be blown up. Commissioner General Cecil N. Pickett notified police and detectives were assigned to mingle with visitors at the building.

William Strachan, an electrician at the building, noticed the little canvas case, about 12 by 18 by 6 inches, Wednesday but believed it belonged to one of the employees and did not examine it. Yesterday, at about 3:30 p. m., he heard it ticking. Thinking at first it was some kind of a radio, he carefully carried it down the public stairway, crowded with hundreds of persons, to the office of Cyril Rawlings, in charge of the service staff.

Carried Through Crowd

It was then carried again through the crowded building to another official and finally to Pickett who called police. Detective Frederick Morlach removed the suitcase from the building to the practically deserted area where shortly after 5 o'clock it detonated after Lunch and Socha had upended it and cut away a corner. Every foot of ground in a 100-foot radius of the blast scene was carefully sifted for clues. A tree was cut up in sections and hauled away for examination for bomb fragments.

RADIO PICTURES

Radio is finally about to teach the film industry a trick or two. A preview technique that has long been employed on such topnotch comedy broadcasts as Rudy Vallee's and Al Pearce's may be adapted by MGM in the filming of comedy pictures.

It's the preview technique—the idea of previewing a show for an audience then cutting out the gags that fail and dressing up the gags that click.

Adapted for the movies, the preview technique would entail showing the picture to audience before the picture goes to the cutting room! In that way, many of the scenes that are lost on the cutting room floor because the cutter deems them unworthy, might actually be saved for the finished film, because en masse audience reaction might be different from the individual cutter's.

Many of the children who were piped to to Madeline Gray's "Bright Idea Club" from out of town visited New York to attend "Bright Idea Club Day" at the World's Fair. One young girl came all the way from California.

OHIO FACTORIES TO BE USED FOR ARMY PROGRAM

Congressmen Assured By War Department That Orders Will Be Granted

SURVEYS ARE HINTED

Solons Urging That Idle Structures Be Used Ahead Of Others

WASHINGTON, July 5 — Ohio congressmen were assured today that the War Department will make extensive surveys of defense industrial possibilities in Ohio, with indications that heavy orders will be placed in the state within a few months.

Because of its location and its many tool, steel and similar plants, members of congress have been informed, Ohio is in a favored spot in working out the multi-billion defense program.

The War Department, according to information given to Rep. Earl Lewis of St. Clairsville, is not yet ready to begin general surveys of possibilities of developing idle plants and converting others, but is expected to take this course in the near future.

Rep. J. Harry McGregor, of West Lafayette, said that one plant in West Lafayette, which filled munitions orders during the World War, has already begun to change its dies so as to be ready to submit bids.

"A number of plants in my district have requested surveys and the War Department has assured me that it will give as prompt attention as possible to this matter," said Rep. Lewis.

Information Provided

"I have sent in much information from several communities. We have suggested two airplane factory sites and one site for a landing field. I have requested that a study be made of the steel plants at Martins Ferry and Mingo Junction, both of which are down and which could be used. Availability of plants at Columbiana, East Palestine, Wellsville, Bellaire, Powhatan Point and Carrollton have been pointed out."

"Members of congress have urged on the War Department the splendid facilities in Ohio, including coal, tool facilities, clay and other products needed for defense purposes," said McGregor.

"I anticipate many orders in my district. Several of our plants have been surveyed, I am informed. Since three or four plants in my district produced materials during the World War, it is highly probable that they will receive orders."

COLUMBUS MAN SHOT IN DUEL WITH MARSHALS

Harland J. Ballard Strikes Wife, Pulls Revolver On Ashville Deputy

her, Myers declared. The deputy marshal interceded and knocked Ballard down, according to witnesses. As the Columbus man arose he drew a revolver, witnesses said.

Intercepted by Others

Myers backed away and Ballard left the dance floor still brandishing the revolver. He had started to run when he was intercepted by Marshal Walden and Deputy Scott. Walden and Scott both fired shots over his head to stop him, but Ballard kept going, they said. Neither of the officers shot at Ballard, they told county authorities, until he turned and started to shoot at them. They returned the fire.

Two bullets struck Ballard, both in the abdomen. The Columbus man fell and was arrested without further resistance. Walden and Scott took a .45 army pistol from him.

Walden and Scott were not certain which one shot Ballard, or whether both might have hit him. He was taken to Mercy Hospital in the Schlegel ambulance.

Another Pistol Found

Ashville authorities searched Ballard's automobile and found another pistol, a .25 caliber automatic, hidden in it. Ballard had run outside the Community Park district in fleeing Walden and Scott, and none of the large crowd that was in the grounds at the time was threatened by bullets.

Village authorities said that they were not informed whether Ballard and his wife had been having trouble. They declared also that the injured man was not intoxicated at the time of the altercation.

11 ON WPA LOSE JOBS REFUSING TO SIGN PLEDGE

COLUMBUS, July 5—Of approximately 115,000 WPA workers in Ohio, only 11 have been dropped because of refusal to sign the new anti-Nazi-Communist pledge required by the latest emergency relief appropriation act, it was announced today.

Six were dropped in the Toledo district, two in the Cincinnati district, two in the Cleveland district and one in the Akron district.

To remain on the rolls, WPA workers must sign an affidavit that they are not aliens or members of the Communist party or Nazi bund organization.

affirmed that Britain will fight against Germany to the end, repeating this assurance in such strong and skillful terms that the demands for removal of Neville Chamberlain and other members of the "old brigade" from the British Government were still— for the moment at least.

British newspapers urged critics to "stop rocking the boat." The Anglo-French break overshadowed all other developments, but in Rome it was reported that Italian troops captured Kassala in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. Romania, with pro-German Ion Gurgu as premier, launched a new program of complete cooperation and "sincere integration" with the Rome-Berlin axis.

German planes raided England during the night, but little damage and no casualties were reported. One bomber was shot down off the east coast of England and its crew rescued and captured.

During yesterday's daylight raid on the Portland naval base in which three small vessels were sunk by Nazi raiders, 11 civilians were killed; British officials disclosed.

LONDON, July 5—The number of French warships in British hands increased today with arrival of still more units at Scottish anchorages.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch quoted the Rome radio as reporting from Madrid that the Anglo-French battle off Oran, Algeria, was still in progress this morning.

At the same time, dispatches from Alexandria said that French war vessels there were still in the harbor alongside British naval ships and that all was outwardly calm.

Seizures Praised
British newspapers unanimously applauded the British seizures and sinking of French war vessels to prevent them from falling into the hands of Germany or Italy.

Some papers insisted the British naval action against the French vessels needs "no apology" and that the present is "no time for softness."

Said the London Daily Mirror: "Hearts of oak should not ache."

A certain amount of anxiety was evident regarding the portions of the French fleet not yet under British control, especially a number French destroyers and submarines.

All British quarters, however, accepted Prime Minister Winston Churchill's assurance of the British Government's "inflexible resolve" to overtake and seize the remaining French naval units.

In his address to the House of Commons yesterday Churchill said the bulk of the French fleet had been seized and bottled up in British ports or destroyed in Wednesday's naval actions.

French Aid British
As the world story was unfolded to Britain, a large number of the French warships at Oran, Algeria, were destroyed and those in English ports were seized. The French vessels at Alexandria surrendered to British and then cooperated in fighting off an Italian air attack.

Chancellor Hitler's Headquarters, July 5—German aerial and submarine attacks on British shipping which sent thousands of tons of vessels to the bottom were announced by the German high command today.

"German submarines recently have scored considerable successes against England," said the war communiqué.

"A submarine commanded by Lieutenant Commander Liebe sank 34,400 tons of shipping. So far in the war his submarine has sunk a total of 85,000 tons.

"Another submarine sank 21,043 tons and still another sank 31,100 tons, including five control steamers.

"Our speedboats torpedoed the armed British steamers Hartlepool of 5,500 tons and the British Corporal, 6,900 tons, during an attack southwest of Portland.

"Furthermore, they sank a convoyed 12,000 ton tanker and an armed merchantman of 8,000 tons. Our patrol flotilla destroyed an enemy submarine off the Norwegian coast.

More Bombing Reported
"The German air force yesterday and last night bombed docks, piers, airports and armament plants in England.

"German Stukas (dive bombers) and fighting planes during attacks on convoys off the south-west coast of England sank four transports of 5,000 tons each, damaged one warship and scored nine additional hits on transports.

"British planes protected by low clouds again penetrated Holland and Belgium and northwestern Germany. They also penetrated northern and western Germany during the night, but did not attack militarily important objectives.

"Apartment houses and farm houses were damaged or set on fire by bomb hits and several civilians were killed.

"Six enemy planes were shot down in air duels and another by German anti-aircraft batteries.

"During a renewed attack on Kiel, naval anti-aircraft batteries shot down one enemy plane. Two German planes are missing."

CAIRO, July 5—Six British pursuit planes met nine enemy planes in combat yesterday and shot down seven of them, an official communiqué said today.

One of the British planes is missing but is believed to have made a forced landing, the announcement said.

Other fighters attacked enemy aircraft, one of which crashed in flames while another made a forced landing, the communiqué added.

ROME, July 5—Widespread aerial and land fighting in the Mediterranean and East Africa, with successful attacks on British bases at Alexandria and Malta, was announced in today's Italian military bulletin.

Capture of Golabat and Kassala in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan was reported.

The bulletin follows: "One of our chaser formations, overcoming adverse atmospheric conditions and strong anti-aircraft reaction, carried out a brilliant machine-gun action on the airfield at Nalfar, Malta, putting out of action eight enemy airplanes. All our machines returned.

"Another formation efficaciously bombed Egyptian ships based at Alexandria, hitting several despite enemy aerial and anti-aircraft reaction. One enemy chaser was shot down. All our machines returned to their bases.

"One of our maritime reconnaissance formations carried out attacks on a few districts of northeast, southeast and southwest England, causing slight damage. No casualties so far have been reported."

Last night German bombers, escorted for the first time by Nazi fighting planes, attacked the southeast section of England. British planes intercepted the raiders, subjecting them to a terrific machine-gun attack. The raiders were driven off and some were reported hit. No bombs were dropped.

Any professional balloon-jumper who tries parachuting at our county fairs next fall will have a tough time of it.

Mercury at 80

The weatherman frowned on many bathing parties Thursday and refused to push temperatures above 80 degrees. Many considered the day one of the coolest holidays in years. Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, local weather observer, reported the highest temperature to be 80 degrees, 15 degrees below that of last year. Temperatures on several previous years were 1937, 82; 1934, 92; 1933, 82; and 1932, 80.

At least a dozen Columbus children were injured in fireworks accidents, with five-year-old Charles Caldwell threatened with the loss of his left eye. Cincinnati reported only three injuries from fireworks.

German afternoon newspapers splashed reports of the Franco-British diplomatic rupture and vociferously condemned the "Oran Blood Bath."

The influential Berlin Nachrichten said: "Prime Minister Winston Churchill has signed his own death sentence with a treacherous act against France."

"What says the English public?"

Willhemstrasse officials declared the French Government chose the "only alternative courageously" when it severed relations with London.

These quarters also asserted that the German public is "indignant" over the latest turn of affairs.

Indications were that whatever war bitterness against France remained following the armistice is now rapidly being converted into sympathy for France.

It's all fixed now. John inserted the following advertisement in local newspapers:

OPEN LETTERS

TO COUNTY HEALTHERS

OFFICIALS: Pickaway Countians were surprised when they read the other day that so little sickness had prevailed in the county during the first six months of the present year. The annual report of the county health office disclosed that only five cases of scarlet fever, four of diphtheria, one of typhoid fever and none of smallpox or infantile paralysis had been reported during that period of time. While there are probably many persons who will give no credit to any one thing in particular for this small number of ailments, I wish to congratulate your office for the fine work it is doing. The health of Pickaway County is being watched better today than ever before in its history, and much credit must deservedly go to Dr. A. D. Blackburn, the health commissioner, and Miss Margaret Hunsicker, the health nurse. Your program is being accepted by all physicians of the district; your efforts are being made to show results, and I extend my best wishes for your efforts in the future. I was pleased to note the other day that the county health board had granted both of you new contracts, because I felt certain that your good work should be continued. You are paying much more attention to health from an educational standpoint, and that is where more effort should have been stressed in the past. Citizens must be taught to think in terms of good health, and when all start doing this, then your worries and those of every one else will cease. I am especially pleased to note the amount of work being done and planned for the future in the schools of the county. This program is an excellent one, and I feel that parents of the county's school pupils are cooperating as they have never before cooperated with any health program. All of us are pleased with the work of the county health office.

TO ASHVILLE FOLK

FRIENDS: The orchid for the week goes to you for the splendid entertainment you arranged for the Fourth of July. Your Independence Day program has gained recognition in many parts of Ohio, and the crowds that pour into your town are certainly evidence of the appeal your undertaking has for the thousands who annually enjoy the day. The program this year was outstanding; it possessed variety sufficient to satisfy all persons who visited the village. Old Sol, too, and Jupiter Pluvius, a couple of guys who have a habit of making things miserable, cooperated, also, in making the Fourth of July celebration a real one. There are many towns the size of your village that look on your community with envy, because they have not been able to promote and conduct holiday events as successful as those you stage. They might learn a little about such efforts if they could study the workings of the community committee that arranges your programs. There are few towns in Ohio the size of Ashville that can weld all interests into one cooperating group to make any undertaking a success. I hope that you are able to stage many more successful Fourth of July celebrations.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CITY COUNCIL

MEMBERS: Your council, which has been going about its duties in a businesslike manner, is to be commended on the effort it has put forth to interest more persons in constructing homes in the city's north end. Streets have been graded and repaired; utilities have been provided, and others are being installed. Many persons who have been in Circleville during the last few years can notice the marked growth of the city toward its northern limits, and this growth is only small compared with what is to be expected in the next few years. Many say that before long a school will have to be erected farther north to accommodate children of families residing in this end of the city. Circleville has plenty of room to grow in several directions, and I am pleased to see so many persons constructing their own homes. Housing, however, continues to be a vital question in our municipality. Many families are making their homes in hovels, in shacks in which no one should be forced to live. The Benevolent Association has been urging for years that something be done about our housing, but there seems to be no way in which conditions can be corrected. However, if continued construction prevails, there will be many homes of smaller value available. This might gradually see the end of the present shack district. Home builders believe that this is the time to construct homes. A home is a permanent, tangible and concrete investment whose intrinsic value to the investor will not be affected by the storms of any war. Stocks depreciate, bonds are defaulted, money itself may become valueless, but so long as a home stands it is shelter, it is security, it is stability for a man and his family. In times such as these, and most of the world at war, the more families that own their own homes, the better off our country will be. We must never forget that our freedom was created by forefathers who lived in homes that they owned, homes that they built in many cases with their own hands.

CIRCUITEER.

TO WILSON S. DUNKEL

SIR: Many regret that illness in your family has forced you to resign your position as superintendent of the County Home and return to your farm in Washington Township. Although you have been at the home for less than a year, your work there has been highly commendable and your cooperation with the inmates assures me that you will be missed when you leave August 1. The county commissioners are planning a Civil Service examination in the near future to fill the vacancy you leave. At the present they have no one in mind for the position. I hope the next superintendent will show the enthusiasm for the work that you have shown. May the work on your farm be pleasant and may Mrs. Dunkel enjoy a speedy recovery to normal health.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

ATTORNEY GENERAL ROBERT JACKSON is no more than getting barely started yet on his new duty of supervising the admission of aliens into the United States. It's a justice departmental sideline, however, which promises to keep him pretty busy before long.

The job was more or less a matter of routine while the labor department handled it, as it did until very recently, dating from away back into the distant past.

Those were the days when we really had immigrants. That is to say, they didn't come here from overseas with any idea of producing an influence of one sort or another in the United States. They came as workers. Few of them remained among us as aliens; generally speaking, they joined us as naturalized Americans as soon as they could.

THOROUGHLY AMERICANIZED

Letting them in and assimilating them very properly was a task for the labor department to handle, because labor then was what they were. There was a long time when we needed them if they were the right kind, as most of them were. They needed a little sorting out, perhaps, and there's no doubt that some of it was rather carelessly done, permitting a few undesirables to trickle into our midst. Still, in the main, these folks constituted an excellent class, which wasn't long in becoming thoroughly Americanized.

By the time the World War rolled around we were beginning to think we had nearly enough of this increasing element of new citizenship. It wasn't that we found any fault with the quality of our would-be newcomers, but American labor was starting to complain that fresh arrivals were developing into an excess of competition. Not only our original American workers said so. Comparatively recent foreigners, who already had been assimilated, said so also.

This led to immigration restrictions. They weren't particularly designed to keep out undesirables. Applicants for admission weren't ordinarily rated as personally undesirable "per se." The argument was that it was undesirable for us to let in many more prospective workers at a juncture when we already had a pretty large contingent of unemployed already on hand.

AN ECONOMIC PROBLEM

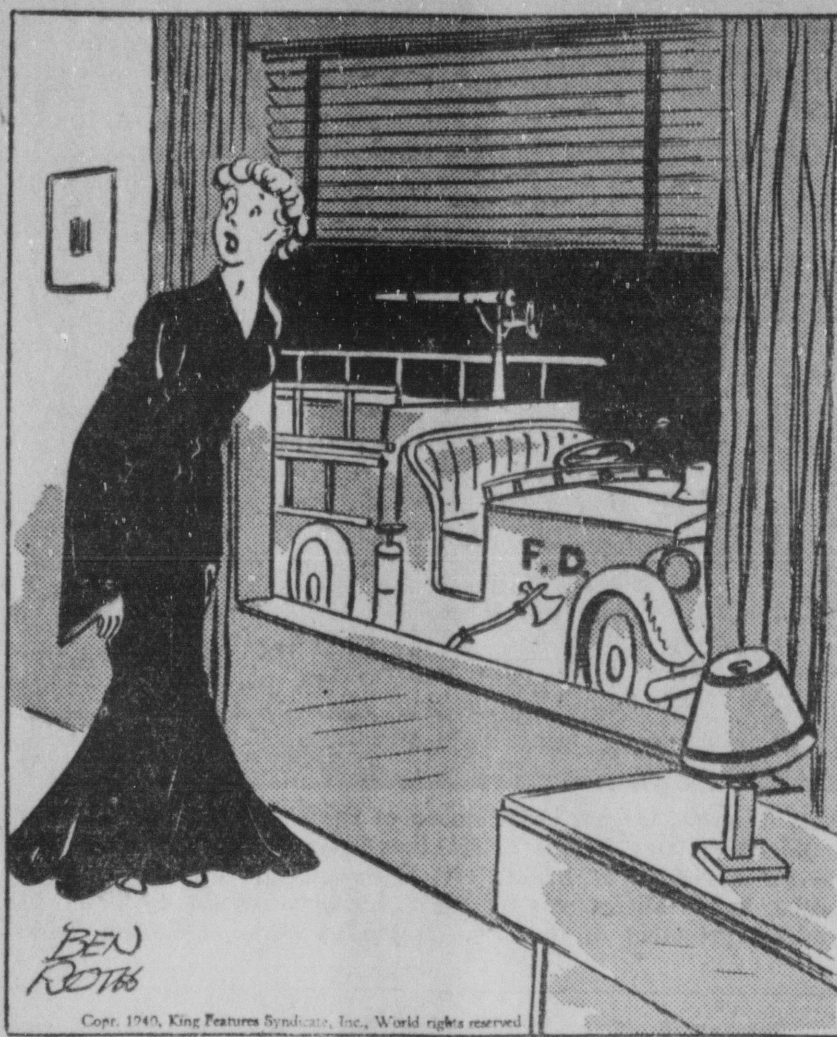

It wasn't a political problem. It was economic. At that point our alien exclusion laws were somewhat on a par with our protective tariff legislation.

Our protective tariff regulations weren't intended to imply that foreign-made goods aren't all right on their merits. Instead, their purpose is that we can do our own manufacturing here at home, and that our manufacturers are entitled to practically a monopoly of our domestic markets, without overseas stuff horning in, in competition with them.

Similarly our unionized workers maintained that they were entitled to protection against the admission of still more foreign labor in competition with the former, thus depressing Yankee wage schedules.

There have been economists who have insisted that we have overdone our protective policy, as to foreign-made goods. There likewise have been critics who have insisted that we have overdone immigration restrictions. Through our customs service, the treasury department has attended and still attends to our tariff collections. Which is o. k. It's an economic task and the treasury's function is economic.

DIET AND HEALTH

Ready for Trouble

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Do vitamins affect the appetite?
● A DIET high in fresh vitamin foods certainly is a good stimulant to the appetite; that is why it is a good thing to start a meal with a raw fruit or fruit juice.

Vitamins B and C seem to be the ones which are the most effective appetite stimulants. Vitamin B complex is also good for many symptoms of functional digestive disturbances. Flatulence, abdominal distress, alternating constipation and diarrhea, constipation

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

only and diarrhea only, and skeletal pain have been found to be relieved by Vitamin B. It is said to be better than any of the other methods in use, such as careful dieting or administration of antispasmodics and sedatives.

Brewer's yeast is a good source of Vitamin B and can be given in this concentrated form between meals and before meals for many forms of functional digestive disturbance. The dosage is two teaspoonfuls of a watery mixture of yeast.

Dangerous Vitality

What are pep tablets?
"Pep tablets" is the name given by college students, I understand, to benzedrine sulphate tablets. These are supposed to increase mental activities and are used sometimes for taking examinations and even by ill-advised coaches to pep up their athletic teams. It's a dangerous practice.

Here's another vacation diet for underweights.

Breakfast: Fresh figs; egg omelet with chicken livers; toast and butter; coffee with cream.

Mid-morning: Glass half milk and half cream.

Luncheon: Potted ox joints; cucumber and lettuce salad; bread with butter; French pastry; coffee with cream.

Mid-afternoon: Cup of cocoa. Dinner: Creamed soup; roast duck, with fried bananas; bread with butter; lettuce and tomato salad; apple pie; coffee with cream.

Evening: Glass of milk. Approximate value—4,400 calories.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Worried Young Mother—"I have an infant daughter and her uncle delights in taking her little feet and holding them in one hand while he tickles the soles with the other. My husband thinks I am too critical and says it could not possibly harm the baby. If anyone should do that to me it would send me into convulsions."

Answer—"I think I would let uncle have his fun. It certainly does not harm the baby and probably pleases her. Infants are somewhat different in regard to stimulation of the skin from adults. Maybe this would send you into convulsions but since it has not sent the baby into convulsions, I think I would let things alone."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has "gung his way to fame on a trumpet," but SARAH MARKLEY, wealthy glamor girl, is trying to capture Ronald for herself. Meanwhile ROBERT BARTON, young engineer, strikes up a friendship with Linda. He introduces her to TERRY ADAMS, publicity man, and Terry's sweetheart, CAROLINE PICKARD, who has been unable to find work.

YESTERDAY: Linda overhears Sarah as she tries to talk Ronnie into becoming engaged to her. After leaving Sarah's party, Robert, Linda, Terry and Caroline start home, but find that Caroline has been evicted by her landlady for not paying her rent. Terry wants Caroline to marry him immediately, but the girl refuses to accept under the circumstances and Linda backs her up, saying she has another plan.

CHAPTER SEVEN

LINDA'S SWIFT objection to Terry's suggestion that he and Caroline be married that night brought a look of relief to the girl's white face.

"Caroline's coming home with me," Linda continued firmly. "I have two studio couches and lots of bed clothes. I raided the closets before we sold the house back home. If that taxi cab driver with the curious eyes, across the street, could fasten the trunk to his cab we could all be off."

Linda won. Half an hour later there was fire in the fireplace, the gate-legged table was drawn in front of it, and the four of them were preparing scrambled eggs and bacon and toast. Caroline, with two glasses of warm milk inside of her, was regaining her lost color.

"Come up, all of you," Linda had insisted to the men. "Turn this into an adventure. Don't let Caroline be embarrassed to face you tomorrow."

Robert followed Linda into the kitchenette as she attached the percolator. "You're tops with me," he said. "Not many girls would have extended hospitality to a stranger. Abruptly he changed the subject. "Shall I take in the cups? You know, some hidden instinct led me to seek a haven here last night."

But there was something cynical, stern in his eyes. For the first time in 24 hours Linda found herself wondering why he had sought succor. He had not told her. He had acted as though she had no right to be inquisitive. But that was all right. Ronnie was back and she was meeting him the next afternoon.

Long after the men had gone she and Caroline sat in pajamas before the fire, talking.

"Have you ever watched your last quarter go and not know where you could earn another one?" the girl who loved Terry asked. "I had a job, a dreadful one! I came out of college with all sorts of ideas. I wanted to be secretary to somebody important. There was just enough money left from my inheritance—I haven't any relatives—to pay for the school."

"And I got a job. Such a job!" She sat with her chin on her hands and her elbows on her knees, studying the greens and reds of the applewood fire. "I was secretary to a corset buyer! Did you ever see the headquarter's where the successful corset buyers have desks? They are successful. They keep their hats on while they dictate, and they usually need their own products. Anyway, I lasted until two months ago—I went there in July following graduation. Since then—"

Now her voice was bitter. But the girl needed to talk. That Linda knew. So she said: "Know Terry long?"

"More than a year. He came up to school on a promotion stunt last winter and I was on the committee he worked with. He's a dear."

"He loves you."

"I think so, but he isn't ready to marry me or anyone. He's filled with adventure. Roots wouldn't hold just yet. Maybe some day... I love him," she finished simply.

The world was filled with girls, Linda mused. Some were like Sarah Markley who would seize a man for the lure of the conquest. Some were too many, though. And they were redeemed by the Caroline Pickards, who could have taken the love they wanted, but wouldn't because they must be sure that there was no pity, no excessive chivalry in it.

With the knowledge Linda felt strong and comforted. She and Ronnie had found each other and her world was a safe and happy place tonight.

She studied Caroline's eager, wistful face carefully. "Have you ever modeled?" she asked. "I? Aren't models willow creatures with a lot of inches? And aren't they beautiful?"

"You're pretty enough, Caroline, to suit anybody. By the time you get used to eating again and forget to worry you'll be beautiful. You were. I can see it. Mr. Bagley needs models for the sub-jab age. You could do most any role. Wait, and in two weeks I'll take you in. That will give you time to gain a little."

"But I'm getting out tomorrow. You've been sweet—and well, I'm going to find a job. Really."

It took more pleading to make the girl agree to remain. Linda at last had to consent to accept payment whenever a mythical job arose.

Caroline went to sleep then, but Linda was wakeful. Too many things had happened in too short a time. Finally she got up, slipped into navy blues and wooly navy bathrobe and stepped out of the long window, went down the steps to the balcony, and leaned against the wide railing. The stars were still bright. Somewhere spring stirred restlessly. The moon shone into the monastery garden and the yellow lights were gone from the buildings that silhouetted against the night sky.

When she heard voices, she did not listen at first. Not until she heard a door open onto another, higher balcony. She saw the lighted doorway then, and realized the sounds came from Robert's apartment. His living quarters were four times as large as hers and the balcony was much longer, so she could look up at it from her own lower level.

She did not move away. She would not be noticed. And in a moment she would go in.

Then she heard a woman's voice, a voice that was furious with anger.

"Why do you think I've waited while you were in China? Don't you know I could have married a dozen times? You're mine, do you hear, mine!"

Then Robert's voice, impersonal, cool, a little bored and a little pitying answered:

"See here, Maria, you don't mean any of that! You're excited, but goodness knows why..."

"I know why! And I'm staying right here until you understand. Right here, if it's one night or three weeks. I waited last night and your man said you wouldn't be back, and I made him let me in tonight—"

"Suit yourself," Robert answered, his voice cold and furious. "But you'll wait alone!" The door banged and Linda heard his steps on the higher balcony. Realizing that she had eavesdropped, she turned to flee. But she was too late. She had been seen.

"Hi, Juliette," Robert called, but the light mood he tried to establish did not suit the tightness of his voice. "You're doing a balcony scene, too, I take it!"

Linda answered his mood. "Are you a balcony prowler, too? I thought I had the view to myself, but I like to be neighborly."

Suddenly he leaned far over. "I used to be good at high jumps. Do you think I could make your railing? I've got to get somebody to help me!"

"Of course!" Funny that she was on Robert's side in whatever happened. Yet—he plainly was avoiding some girl. She held her breath as he began to lower himself. Suppose he fell!

He was almost down when the door into his own balcony opened again and somebody stepped out.

TO COUNTY HEALTHERS

OFFICIALS: Pickaway Countians were surprised when they read the other day that so little sickness had prevailed in the county during the first six months of the present year. The annual report of the county health office disclosed that only five cases of scarlet fever, four of diphtheria, one of typhoid fever and none of smallpox or infantile paralysis had been reported during that period of time. While there are probably many persons who will give no credit to any one thing in particular for this small number of ailments, I wish to congratulate your office for the fine work it is doing. The health of Pickaway County is being watched better today than ever before in its history, and much credit must deservedly go to Dr. A. D. Blackburn, the health commissioner, and Miss Margaret Hunsicker, the health nurse. Your program is being accepted by all physicians of the district; your efforts are being made to show results, and I extend my best wishes for your efforts in the future. I was pleased to note the other day that the county health board had granted both of your new contracts, because I felt certain that your good work should be continued. You are paying much more attention to health from an educational standpoint, and that is where more effort should have been stressed in the past. Citizens must be taught to think in terms of good health, and when all start doing this, then your worries and those of every one else will cease. I am especially pleased to note the amount of work being done and planned for the future in the schools of the county. This program is an excellent one, and I feel that parents of the county's school pupils are cooperating as they have never before cooperated with any health program. All of us are pleased with the work of the county health office.

The program this year was outstanding; it possessed variety sufficient to satisfy all persons who visited the village. WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

ATTORNEY GENERAL ROBERT JACKSON is no more than getting barely started yet on his new duty of supervising the admission of aliens into the United States. It's a justice departmental sideline, however, which promises to keep him pretty busy before long.

The job was more or less a matter of routine while the labor department handled it, as it did until very recently, dating from away back into the distant past.

Those were the days when we really had immigrants. That is to say, they didn't come here from overseas with any idea of producing an influence of one sort or another in the United States. They came as workers. Few of them remained among us as aliens; generally speaking, they joined us as naturalized Americans as soon as they could.

THOROUGHLY AMERICANIZED

Letting them in and assimilating them very properly was a task for the labor department to handle, because labor then was what they were. There was a long time when we needed them if they were the right kind, as most of them were. They needed a little sorting out, perhaps, and there's no doubt that some of it was rather carelessly done, permitting a few undesirables to trickle into our midst. Still, in the main, these folks constituted an excellent class, which wasn't long in becoming thoroughly Americanized.

By the time the World War rolled around we were beginning to think we had nearly enough of this increasing element of new citizenship. It wasn't that we found any fault with the quality of our would-be newcomers, but American labor was starting to complain that fresh arrivals were developing into an excess of competition. Not only our original American workers said so. Comparatively recent foreigners, who already had been assimilated, said so also.

This led to immigration restrictions. They weren't particularly designed to keep out undesirables. Applicants for admission weren't ordinarily rated as personally undesirable "per se." The argument was that it was undesirable for us to let in many more prospective workers at a juncture when we already had a pretty large contingent of unemployed already on hand.

AN ECONOMIC PROBLEM

It wasn't a political problem. It was economic.

At that point our alien exclusion laws were somewhat on a par with our protective tariff legislation.

Our protective tariff regulations weren't intended to imply that foreign-made goods aren't all right on their merits. Instead, their purpose is that we can do our own manufacturing here at home, and that our manufacturers are entitled to practically a monopoly of our domestic markets, without overseas stuff horning in, in competition with them.

Similarly our unionized workers maintained that they were entitled to protection against the admission of still more foreign labor in competition with the former, thus depressing Yankee wage schedules.

There have been economists who have insisted that we have overdone our protective policy, as to foreign-made goods. There likewise have been critics who have insisted that we have overdone immigration restrictions.

Through our customs service, the treasury department has attended and still attends to our tariff collections. Which is o. k. It's an economic task and the treasury's function is economic.

TO CITY COUNCIL

MEMBERS: Your council, which has been going about its duties in a businesslike manner, is to be commended on the effort it has put forth to interest more persons in constructing homes in the city's northend area. Streets have been graded and repaired; utilities have been provided, and others are being installed. Many persons who have been in Circleville during the last few years can notice the marked growth of the city toward its northern limits, and this growth is only small compared with what is to be expected in the next few years. Many say that before long a school will have to be erected farther north to accommodate children of families residing in this end of the city. Circleville has plenty of room to grow in several directions, and I am pleased to see so many persons constructing their own homes. Housing, however, continues to be a vital question in our municipality. Many families are making their homes in hovels, in shacks in which no one should be forced to live. The Benevolent Association has been urging for years that something be done about our housing, but there seems to be no way in which conditions can be corrected. However, if continued construction prevails, there will be many homes of smaller value available. This might gradually see the end of the present shack district. Home builders believe that this is the time to construct homes. A home is a permanent, tangible and concrete investment whose intrinsic value to the investor will not be affected by the storms of any war. Stocks depreciate, bonds are defaulted, money itself may become valueless, but so long as a home stands it is shelter, it is security, it is stability for a man and his family. In times such as these, and most of the world at war, the more families that own their own homes, the better off our country will be. We must never forget that our freedom was created by forefathers who lived in homes that they owned, homes that they built in many cases with their own hands.

SIR: Many regret that illness in your family has forced you to resign your position as superintendent of the County Home and return to your farm in Washington Township. Although you have been at the home for less than a year, your work there has been highly commendable and your cooperation with the inmates assures me that you will be missed when you leave August 1. The county commissioners are planning a Civil Service examination in the near future to fill the vacancy you leave. At the present they have no one in mind for the position. I hope the next superintendent will show the enthusiasm for the work that you have shown. May the work on your farm be pleasant and may Mrs. Dunkel enjoy a speedy recovery to normal health.

Do vitamins affect the appetite?

● A DIET high in fresh vitamin foods certain, is a good stimulant to the appetite; that is why it is a good thing to start a meal with a raw fruit or fruit juice.

Vitamins B and C seem to be the ones which are the most effective appetite stimulants. Vitamin B complex is also good for many symptoms of functional digestive disturbances. Flatulence, abdominal distress, alternating constipation and diarrhea, constipation only and diarrhea only, and skeletal pain have been found to be relieved by Vitamin B. It is said to be better than any of the other methods in use, such as careful dieting or administration of antispasmodics and sedatives.

Brewer's yeast is a good source of Vitamin B and can be given in this concentrated form between meals and before meals for many forms of functional digestive disturbance. The dosage is two teaspoonfuls of a watery mixture of yeast.

Dangerous Vitality

What are pep tablets?

"Pep tablets" is the name given by college students, I understand, to benzedrine sulphate tablets. These are supposed to increase mental activities and are used sometimes for taking examinations and even by ill-advised coaches to pep up their athletic teams. It's a dangerous practice.

Here's another vacation diet for underweights.

Breakfast: Fresh figs; egg omelet with chicken livers; toast and butter; coffee with cream.

Mid-morning: Glass half milk and half cream.

Luncheon: Potted ox joints; cucumber and lettuce salad; bread with butter; French pastry; coffee with cream.

Dinner: Creamed soup; roast duck, with fried bananas; bread with butter; lettuce and tomato salad; apple pie; coffee with cream.

Evening: Glass of milk.

A Worried Young Mother—"I have an infant daughter and her uncle delights in taking her little feet and holding them in one hand while he tickles the soles with the other. My husband thinks I am too critical and says it could not possibly harm the baby. If anyone should do that to me it would send me into convulsions."

Answer—I think I would let uncle have his fun. It certainly does not harm the baby and probably pleases her. Infants are somewhat different in regard to stimulation of the skin from adults. Maybe this would send you into convulsions, but since it has not sent the baby into convulsions, I think I would let things alone.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS: LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has given up his way to fame on a trumpet, but SARAH MARKLEY, wealthy glamor girl, is trying to capture Ronald for herself. The child born on this date will also be very fortunate in all its undertakings. Its nature will be quiet, dignified, patient, very kind-hearted, generous, affectionate and domesticated.

"You're tops with me," he said.

tee he worked with. He's a dear."

"He loves you."

"I think so, but he isn't ready to marry me or anyone. He's filled with adventure. Roots wouldn't hold just yet. Maybe some day. . . I love him," she finished simply.

The world was filled with girls, Linda mused. Some were like Sarah Markley who would seize a man for the lure of the conquest. Some not too many, though. And they were redeemed by the Caroline Pickards, who could have taken the love they wanted, but wouldn't because they must be sure that there was no pity, no excessive chivalry in it.

The shade, called "Langtry glow" after the beautiful Lily, is highlighted in the coolest manner possible with bright, thin red, a color contrast popular this summer for frocks as well as accessories.

The pink hat sets off almost any green of the season, including the new poison-green, and all of the prevailing browns, including chocolate. It's unerring with black sheers, and saves many a print from looking ordinary. YANKS SHOWING POWER

World's Champions Move To Within 5 1/2 Games Of Leading Position

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, July 5—If there is anything to that old saying that the teams on top the night of July 4 will meet in the following World Series, then Brooklyn and Cleveland are due to tangle just as they did 20 years ago when those two towns last had a pennant winner.

However, we shouldn't care to risk our other shirt on that proposition with the Reds still hot on the heels of the Dodgers and the Tigers, Red Sox and Yanks right on the Indians' necks.

The Yanks looked something like their old selves yesterday when they hammered out a pair of victories over the Red Sox, 12-4 and 7-3, and did it by slamming not fewer than eight home runs.
They are now only 5 1/2 games off the pace and if that spurge indicates a return to form, they will be hard to hold in check through the second half of the race.

Tommy Bridges pitched the Tigers into first place by taking the first half of a double bill from the Indians, 5-3, but the Cleve-landers came back to win the nightcap and top ranking in 11 heats, 2 to 1.

The Senators climbed out of the cellar at the expense of the Ath-

HANDICAP RACE DRAWS RECORD TO CHICAGO PARK

CHICAGO, July 5—The traditional Stars and Stripes Handicap, mile and an eighth Independence Day feature, attracted one of the largest crowds in the track's history to Arlington Park yesterday, the attendance and betting figures revealed today.

Almost 50,000 persons jammed the huge inclosure, and $906,617 changed hands in wagers. This was the largest amount bet at an Illinois track in 11 years.

The triumph of Charles S.
Howard's even money favorite,
Advocate, in the $12,880 feature race contributed to the day's success. Under the expert handling of Jockey Johnny Oros, Advoca-tor took the lead in the stretch and romped a length in front the Woolford Farm's Joe Schenck.
The time was 1:50, only three-fifths of a second under the track record. Yale O'Nine was third.

World's Champions Move To Within 5 1/2 Games Of Leading Position

NEW YORK, July 5—If there is anything to that old saying that the teams on top the night of July 4 will meet in the following World Series, then Brooklyn and Cleveland are due to tangle just as they did 20 years ago when those two towns last had a pennant winner.

However, we shouldn't care to risk our other shirt on that proposition with the Reds still hot on the heels of the Dodgers and the Tigers, Red Sox and Yanks right on the Indians' necks.

Tommy Bridges pitched the first half of a double bill from the Indians, 5-3, but the Clevelanders came back to win the nightcap and top ranking in 11 heats, 2 to 1.

letics whom they trimmed, 5-1 and 9-5. And the White Sox had a field day against some very inept pitching and took a pair from the Browns, 7-3 and 8-5.

The Dodgers clung to their one game lead over the Reds by taking a pair from the Giants before a capacity house, 5-1 and 6-1. Curt Davis held the Giants to seven hits in the opener and Vito Tamulis held them to three in the nightcap. Vito had a perfect game in hand until the eighth—not a Giant reaching first base—but here the Terrymen bunched their three hits for their lone run. The double defeat set the Giants back five full games behind the pace setters.

The Reds took two from the Pirates, 9-1 and 3-1, as Bucky Walters turned in his 11th victory and Gene Thompson his 10th. Thompson gave only three hits for his decision.

Walters granted only seven hits in the first game, took part in two of three double plays, smashed two hits out of four times up, and scored two runs, one of them on a double steal. Behind him the Reds smacked out 12 hits, including Ival Goodman's fifth homer of the season, driving Bob Klingner from the mound in the third canto with a five run barrage.

A crowd of 19,399 fans watched the Reds continued their championship play in the night game as they turned in two more double plays and smacked out nine hits to give Thompson his victory.

The Reds now share the record for successive twin wins with Brooklyn, who won four straight double-headers in 1924, and with New York, who turned the trick in 1928.

The Reds conclude the Pirate series with a single game today, with Jim Turner gunning for his sixth mound triumph of the season. He will be opposed by his former teammate, bespectacled Danny MacFayden.

The Bees and Phils split a pair, Blanton taking the opener for the Phils, 4-3, and Sisti's homer putting the second game in the bag for the Bees, 5-4.

The Cubs took the opener from the Cardinals, 4 to 3, behind Larry French, but the Cards got an even break on the day behind Shoun, 5 to 2.

THE HEROES AND THE GOATS

Heroes: Vito Tamulis, Dodgers, who gave the Giants only three hits in the second game as the Dodgers took two; Gene Thompson, Reds, who duplicated the Tamulis performance as the Reds took a pair from the Pirates.

Goats: Roxie Lawson, Browns, who failed to last an inning against the White Sox; Herb Hash, Red Sox, who failed to last an inning against the Yanks, the Yanks and White Sox each winning two games.

HANDICAP RACE DRAWS RECORD TO CHICAGO PARK

CHICAGO, July 5—The traditional Stars and Stripes Handicap, mile and an eighth Independence Day feature, attracted one of the largest crowds in the track's history to Arlington Park yesterday, the attendance and betting figures revealed today.

Almost 50,000 persons jammed the huge inclosure, and $906,617 changed hands in wagers. This was the largest amount bet at an Illinois track in 11 years.

The triumph of Charles S. Howard's even money favorite, Advocate, in the $12,880 feature race contributed to the day's success. Under the expert handling of Jockey Johnny Oros, Advocate took the lead in the stretch and romped a length in front of the Woolford Farm's Joe Schenck.

The time was 1:50, only three-fifths of a second under the track record. Yale O'Nine was third.

Yale O'Nine was third.

HAPPY LARK SETS NEW RECORD AT LANCASTER

LANCASTER, July 5 — Happy Lark, owned by Dan Cronin of Columbus, today possessed his second track record of the season, lowering the Lancaster oval mark for six and a half furlongs to 1.22 to take the sixth race on the holiday program. More than 12,000 fans saw him win over No. 2 Date by two lengths.

Two weeks ago Happy Lark lowered the five and a half furlong mark at North Randall to 1:06.

Boos Double, a rank outsider in the betting, won the ninth race to pay $45.80 at the mutual windows, top price of the meeting.

SLUGGING OUTFIELDER PURCHASED BY REDS

CINCINNATI, July 5—The Cincinnati Reds today announced the purchase of Outfielder Mike Dejan from Chattanooga in the Southern association "for a large amount of cash and a player to be named at a later date."

Dejan, who started as a pitcher, bats left-handed and throws right-handed and is six feet three inches tall. He is hitting .403, and has smacked 17 homers and driven in 80 runs. He will report July 10.

ASHVILLE'S HOLIDAY CELEBRATION ATTRACTS RECORD CROWDS.

PARADE, VARIED CONTESTS PROVE BIG SUCCESSES

Massed Bands Add Color To Fourth Of July Celebration

PRIZE WINNERS LISTED

National Guard Artillery Unit Puts On Show During Day

By S. D. Fridley
Phone Asheville 79

The weatherman was sure on his good behavior Thursday with no sign of rain—a most perfect day for any outdoor work or activity. It was the first time in five years that there was no rain on July 4, so a knowing weather diary keeper told us.

But about the Big Asheville Day. It proved a splendid success.

With the four bands, Amanda, Gahanna, Union Furnace, and V. F. W. in the parade at 11 o'clock and with the concert work during the day, it proved a most pleasing feature. The lady drum majors were finely outfitted and knew their batons. The Sousa march music yet holds on with favor among band instructors.

The parade setting, while minus the expensive floats of some former years, was a splendid one and much enjoyed by the large crowd of onlookers. The little tots, the pets, bicyclists and comics were especially pleasing. The massed bands concert during the afternoon was something different here and a splendid feature.

The Service Battery, 136th Field Artillery, with field kitchen in actual operation and serving its own meals was a pleasing feature and one seldom seen by the average individual.

In the parade line the judges chose the following deserving of awards: decorated auto, Foreman Motor Sales; decorated bicycles; 1. Jean Carter; 2. Leonard Campbell; 3. Forrest Sothorn. Pets: 1. Betty Lou Badger; 2. Sally Spung; 3. Charles Trone. Comics: 1. Marie Shook Mowery's daughters; 2. Charles Ward. Baby outfits: 1. Joyce Roller; 2. Bobby Cline; 3. Tim McCarthy; 4. Dick Cline.

In the stunt division in charge of Edwin Irwin and Walter Gregg, the following were winners: Apple race, Eloise Stein. Kangaroo hop race, Maynard Burns. Scrambled shoe race, Sara Imler. Drinking race, Junior Brown. Clothes pin race, Cecil Downhour and Ruth Brown. Balloon bursting, Thurman Wheeler. Nail driving contest for women, Mrs. Watson Brown, Circleville. Flapjack flipping for men, Charles Brown, Asheville. Pillow fight for boys, Jim Miller, first; John Chamberlain, second, both Asheville.

Heading the line of march in the parade were first: V. F. W. drum corps, Franklin County council; second, 136th division service battery, O. N. G., Capt. Miller, Lieut. Joe Lynch, commanding; third, special detachment, special troop medical division under command, Capt. Ruppberg.

The lunch stand conducted by members of the Community Club reported a good business, the nicely fried fish being a feature.

Last night's attendance was a real crowd of thousands with the dance and fireworks the feature.

CHESTERFIELD STARTS NEW SERIES OF ADS

New July Chesterfield Cigarette advertisements featuring Gary Cooper, Brenda Joyce and other famous personalities were released this week to national newspapers by Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company.

The campaign features a new theme line—"Do You Smoke the Cigarette that Satisfies?"

In addition to insertions in thousands of newspapers, Chesterfield advertising continues in magazines, billboards, dealer aids, and the coast-to-coast Fred Waring and Glenn Miller radio programs.

NEW GARLIC FACTORY
PILOX, Cal.—Please, gentlemen, could they put a $40,000 factory with a large payroll in the town of Gilroy, a Los Angeles concern asked the city fathers.

Officials, after recovering from their surprise, learned the reason for the company's unusual attitude. It seems they want to erect an onion and garlic powder manufacturing plant and such an edifice smells like it sounds. The company wanted to be certain that Gilroy citizens wouldn't complain. Gilroyans are willing to ignore any odors in return for the 50 jobs the plant would offer.

Hitler To Tangle With Soviet In September If He Defeats British Foe

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON, July 5—If Hitler succeeds in his boast regarding the conquest of Great Britain, next move on the Nazi time-table is almost sure to be Russia. You can write it down as fairly certain that Hitler will invade the Soviet around September 1.

There is one big reason for this—food. Europe is sure to be famine-stricken this winter. The Polish wheat crop is bad; so are the Balkan crops. The French will not be able to reap much of a harvest.

Denmark is already killing its cattle for lack of grain. Norway never was entirely self-supporting.

However, just across the Carpathians lies one of the richest granaries in the world—the Ukraine. Its wheat crop this year, although not the best, will be sufficient to keep down a lot of anti-Nazi unrest in a hungry Europe. Hitler not only needs it, but long ago announced in that infallible document, Mein Kampf, that he will take it.

Obviously Stalin knows this. That is why he has sent tremendous reinforcements into the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. That also is why he has edged his borders across Besadabia up to the Carpathian mountains.

Ribbentrop Warning
Key to Hitler's Russian policy was contained in a cable received here in diplomatic code which told of the great numbers of Red troops crowding into Lithuania, and how the Lithuanian Minister in Berlin reported this to Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop. He said, among other things, that Red troops from as far away as Siberia had entered Lithuania, and asked Ribbentrop's advice as to what his government should do.

"Don't do anything," Ribbentrop advised, according to the cable report. "After we finish with Great Britain we'll take care of them."

Note—Actual strength of the Russian army along the Baltic, Polish and Rumanian border is: sixteen infantry divisions, eleven tank divisions, and two cavalry divisions—a total of about 500,000 men.

British-Russian Deal?
At present Sir Stafford Cripps is in Moscow as special British ambassador trying to work out a new deal between Russia and Britain. What will come out of his mission no one can predict.

However, two things seem certain. One is that only a flank attack by Russia on Germany's sphere of influence in the Balkans or upon Germany itself can spare the British Isles virtual annihilation from the air.

The other is that if the British Isles are conquered, it will be Stalin's turn next.

Purple Pants
The President, accompanied by his personal bodyguard, Tommy Qualters, came into a room where arrangements had been made for taking photographs. Qualters wore a pair of slacks of purplish blue.

While the cameras were being set, the President quipped: "Have you got a color camera? I think you should take a color photograph of Tommy's pants."

Merry-Go-Round
Miss Marguerite LeHand, private secretary to the President, won $25 in bets that Willkie would be nominated. She gave the money to the Red Cross. . . . A shoestring peddler near the State Department attracts customers by holding out his wares and crying, "Jim Farley is smarter than a hundred Hitlers." . . . SEC Commissioner Leon Henderson gets to work before most officials are awake. A Congressman found him there at 7:00 one morning; he had been at his desk since 5:00. . . . With the $20,000,000 credit from the Export-Import Bank, Argentina will buy a flock of U. S. buses for her new transportation system. . . . FRENCH SAILORS LOST IN BATTLE IN INLAND SEA

LONDON, July 5—Hundreds of French sailors went down with their ships in the battle between British and French naval units off Oran, Algeria, in the Mediterranean, the London Daily Sketch said today.

The paper added that some of the French naval officers and men detained at English ports gave the Nazi salute and shouted "Heil Hitler" when they were led from their vessels.

On its front page the London Daily Mirror published this comment on the speech of Prime Minister Winston Churchill describing the seizure or sinking of French fleet units to prevent them from falling into the hands of Germany:

"The French fleet is not accounted for. Where are the rest of the submarines and destroyers?"

TRIO, INCLUDING CHILD, 3, KILLED IN PLANE MISHAP

MONMOUTH, Ill., July 5—The coroner's office today sought the cause of a holiday airplane crash at the Monmouth airport, in which three persons, including a three-year-old boy, were killed.

The victims were Robert McVay, 45, pilot and operator of a flying school, F. M. Sadler, an auto parts dealer, and Sadler's young son. A fourth passenger, Sadler's young niece, was injured critically.

The plane crashed from about 200 feet when McVay tried to swerve suddenly to avoid two poles erected at the airport for a balloon ascension held in connection with an Independence Day celebration.

A noted astronomer now discards an old, accepted belief and announces the sun will get a lot hotter before it cools off—the cooling taking place billions of years from now. Nice guy—to announce that, in July!

BUCHAREST, July 5—Romania's new government headed by Premier Ion Gigurtu launched a foreign policy of complete cooperation with the Rome-Berlin axis today.

A declaration by the Gigurtu regime said the government planned to remain at peace with Romania's neighbors and would increase its armaments for the purpose of maintaining order.

The declaration, addressed to the nation, described Gigurtu's foreign policy as "sincere integration with the system created by the Rome-Berlin axis."

Quarters close to the new government said a totalitarian government was the only means of meeting the crisis caused by cession of Bessarabia and northern Bukovina to Russia and the territorial claims of Bulgaria and Hungary against Romania.

Romania can resist these claims and Communist agitation within the country only with Central European support, these circles contended.

Sooner or later, they predicted, there will be friction between Germany and Russia and when that happens Romania hopes to recover Bessarabia and northern Bukovina.

Gigurtu's proclamation said the government intends to pursue a policy of "honesty with France and the Rome-Berlin axis," and is equally determined to maintain cordial relations with Romania's neighbors in the belief peace is indispensable for a "higher political order in Europe."

It added the government will "silence immediately" anyone spreading false reports to provoke disturbances.

National Guard Artillery Unit Puts On Show During Day

By R. S. D. Fridley
Phone Ashville 79

The Weatherman was sure on his good behavior Thursday with no sign of rain—a most perfect day for any outdoor work or activity. It was the first time in five years that there was no rain on July 4, so a knowing weather diary keeper told us.

But about the Big Ashville Day, it proved a splendid success.

With the four bands, Amanda, Gahanna, Union Furnace, and V. F. W. in the parade at 11 o'clock and with the concert work during the day, it proved a most pleasing feature. The lady drum majors were finely outfitted and knew their batons. The Sousa march music yet holds on with favor among band instructors.

The parade setting, while minus the expensive floats of some former years, was a splendid one and much enjoyed by the large crowd of onlookers. The little tots, the pets, bicyclists and comics were especially pleasing. The massed bands concert during the afternoon was something different here and a splendid feature.

The Service Battery, 136th Field Artillery, with field kitchen in actual operation and serving its own meals was a pleasing feature and one seldom seen by the average individual.

In the parade line the judges chose the following deserving of awards: decorated auto, Foreman Motor Sales; decorated bicycles; 1. Jean Carter; 2. Leonard Campbell; 3. Forrest Seothorn. Pets: 1. Betty Lou Badger; 2. Sally Spung; 3. Charles Trone. Comics: 1. Marie Shook Mowery's daughters; 2. Charles Ward. Baby outfits: 1. Joyce Roller; 2. Bobby Cline; 3. Tim McCarthy; 4. Dick Cline.

In the stunt division in charge of Edwin Irwin and Walter Gregg, the following were winners: Apple race, Eloise Stein. Kangaroo hop race, Maynard Burns. Scrambled shoe race, Sara Imler. Drinking race, Junior Brown. Clothes pin race, Cecil Downhour and Ruth Brown. Balloon bursting, Thurman Wheeler. Nail driving contest for women, Mrs. Watson Brown, Circleville. Flapjack flipping for men, Charles Brown, Ashville. Pillow fight for boys, Jim Miller, first; John Chamberlain, second, both Ashville.

Heading the line of march in the parade were first: V. F. W. drum corps, Franklin County council; second, 136th division service battery, O. N. G., Capt. Miller, Lieut. Joe Lynch, commanding; third, special detachment, special troop medical division under command, Capt. Ruppberg.

The lunch stand conducted by members of the Community Club reported a good business, the nicely fried fish being a feature.

Last night's attendance was a real crowd of thousands with the dance and fireworks the feature.

YOU CAN'T BUY USED CARS for LESS Money

AND MATCH THE QUALITY We Offer

All of our used cars are carefully reconditioned by the same FACTORY TRAINED EXPERIENCED mechanics, who service cars for hundreds of satisfied service customers. Replacement parts used are from our complete stock of GENUINE PARTS. These cars are, and should be, BETTER than cars which have been "just COBBLED UP."

See Them—Drive Them

Be Convinced of Their Extra Value

We were fortunate in being able to trade in several good used cars in the last week and they are included in this list.

- 2 1938—Master Deluxe Chevrolet Town Sedans. Both nice clean, good running one owner cars with new black lacquer finish—good tires and clean upholstery.
- 1 1936—Chevrolet 4 Door Sedan—A good, straight, clean reconditioned car that will give lots of satisfactory service.
- 1 1936—Chevrolet Town Sedan.
- 1 1936—Chevrolet Coupe.
- 1 1935—Chevrolet Coach.

This list covers only a part of our stock. We have other cars of standard make and model. See us before you buy.

Used car prices advanced in Detroit last week. But, we are offering our cars at the old prices.
